BRIGHT SIDE OF A DARK PR

Rev. Dr. Locking Speaks To Methodists On Negro Progress-Philadelphia Pastor Preaches at Park Church-Rev. William Pressey at Trinity Episcopal Church.

Sunday's weather: Partly cloudy;

Dr. Docking, who has had many years' experience in the south, is full of hope for the future of the negro race, and is sure he will win out with half a chance. The negro of the south needs our helping hand. He can not solve his own problem. We must help him, and he will help himself. No other race in the history of the human family has made such progress that the negro has made such progress that the negro has made during the past forty years. We have a new south. The eloquent appeals and twoching incidents told in a thrilling manner by the speaker aroused the congregation, and a liberal collection was taken to aid the noble work that Rust university is doing for work that Rust university is doing for the uplift of the negro race.

Improved Farm Machinery successful operation of a simple machine that cuts and threshes small grain at a single operation. A ma chine no heavier and not much mor complicated than a binder cuts and complicated than a binder cuts and threshes wheat or oats at the same rate as the binder now cuts the grain. The reports may be exaggerated but things have been done in the past with farm machinery that at the time seemed more remarkable than this seems now. The thing has been done, but only by machines so heavy and complicated that they can be used profitably only on bonanza farms.

ably only on bonanza farms This reminds us that the farmers may yet be emancipated from the special strain of harvest time. The greatest difficulty of the farmer lies in the way his work increases at certain periods. As water can flow through a pipe only as fast as its narrowest part pipe only as fast as its narrowest part permits, so a farmer must adjust his operation for the year with more or less reference to the special demands of harvest time. The annual cry for harvest hands is the result of the farmer's risking a crop as large as he can handle at planting time, trusting to special providence to furnish help for the harvest. A harvesting machine that will turn out threshed grain instead of sheaves that must be shocked, stacked and later threshed would solve the difficulty.—Nebraska State Journal.

Remedies for Tree Pests.

The frequent publication of reports that this or that "pest" had scriously damaged this or that crop of fruit in this or that section of the country gives particular pertinency to the report of the consul general of the United States at Vancouver, who gives the information that the Canadian government has recently desironed 30 000 ment has recently destroyed 30,000 fruit trees which were afflicted with certain diseases. In this country there is little scientific exclusion of infected trees, certainly not to the extent of the quarantine against infected livestock. Yet legislation, rigidly enforced along this line must constitute one stock. Yet legislation, rigidly enforced, along this line must constitute one of the main features of whatever remedial steps are to be taken to protect the fruit growers of the United States. In spite of the immense advance that has been made along scientific lines in the investigation of the causes, and prevention and cure of the flood of agricultural and horticultural expert information which is being disseminated by the trade papers, there is still a very large field for continued investigation along these lines. Perhaps the real need, however, is for a more rigid observance and application more rigid observance and application of what has already been determined. There would seem to be little reason for fruit growers to be so nearly at the mercy of iree pesis as they are.—Kansas City Journal.
